

IPC's Media Accreditation Policy

Sales, advertising, public relations and market research staff, business analysts, publishers and technical consultants are not eligible for press credentials.

Press registrations are not accepted for the IMS/PCB Presidents Management, EMS Management Council, SMEMA Council, and PCB Suppliers Management Council Meetings.

IPC requires proof of applicant's professional status, including titled business card, publication, and applicant's name listed in an editorial capacity.

Trade and Business Publications

Editorial staff must provide a business card with an editorial title and a current issue's masthead listing their name.

Freelance Writers / Authors

Persons requesting freelance credentials must provide an original letter of assignment and two bylined articles published within the last six months. Those who freelance occasionally and are employed by non-news organizations are not eligible for media credentials. Authors must be under current contract and provide an original letter from their publisher. Freelance authors receiving credentials without subsequent publication will be denied press credentials at IPC's discretion.

Internet-based Publications

Editors from online newsletters or other e-publications are admitted at IPC's discretion and must provide proof of direct editorial coverage of the industry or related technology to be considered for eligibility.
